

AC Insurance Services Adds RV Insurance Section To Website

July 27, 2016

AC Insurance Services, based in West Palm Beach, FL, has announced that they have dedicated a section of their website specifically for RVers. They now offer specialty recreational vehicle (RV) insurance features, as well as various industry resources. In so doing, they aim to assist people who live the RV lifestyle.

Pete Steiner from AC Insurance Services says: "We have added a section for RVs and we designed a new interface with enhanced functionality. We really tried to improve the overall user experience, offering an easy to use online quotation system. Plus, we continue to offer methods to lower premiums, for instance by bundling different policies under a single insurance agency."

AC Insurance Services has offered various kinds of insurance policies since 1991. They have staff available ready to answer questions and to provide quotations for RV insurance, and various other policies. They pride themselves on their superior RV insurance coverage. The company is able to access A+ rated carriers, thereby offering the best rates for every individual. Their coverage includes emergency expenses, full timer's, vacation liability, and more.

The company aims to be more than solely an insurance agency. They want to provide educational resources for their clients, including RVers, whether they are a novice, or have lived the lifestyle for years. As such, they release frequent blog posts on issues related not just to RV insurance, but also on a range of other insurance-related topics. These include such things as strange insurance claims, things to consider before taking out insurance, and questions that people should ask their insurance provider.

Those who have used the services of the agency have been very happy with the service that they have received. "Peter at A C Insurance Services found a great auto insurance policy for me in a short period of time," says Amanda W. on the company's Facebook page. "He educated me on my policy options and provided prompt, excellent customer service. I would highly recommend A C Insurance Services and will again turn to them in a few short months for their expertise when renewing my liability policy for my business."
