

AC Insurance Services Announces Free Boat Insurance Checkup

February 14, 2017

West Palm Beach, Florida based AC Insurance Services recently announced that they are now offering free checkups to determine if clients have adequate insurance for their boat. The insurance agency states that many consumers who own boats and other personal watercraft are not aware that they are not carrying enough insurance.

"Things happen," says Pete Steiner with the insurance agency. "When things do happen, you want to be sure that you have enough insurance to cover your costs. If you wreck your boat or a catastrophe hits on the water, you want to know that your insurance will cover you for the cost of repairs."

Steiner says that many with boat insurance do not realize that not all policies are the same. He states that some boat owners choose a policy and then do not upgrade that policy when they upgrade their watercraft. Because of this, the agency points out that it is imperative that boat owners have an analysis done on their boat insurance to be certain that they are carrying the proper amounts and to check premiums and cost.

"You want to know that you're covered," says Steiner. "But, also you want to know that you are not paying too much for that insurance coverage. We can help you to determine if you have adequate coverage and make sure that it is not costing you more than it should."

AC Insurance Services offers specialized boat coverage and coverage for other personal watercraft such as jet skis. Steiner states that they offer a number of options for specialized coverage including on-water towing, total loss replacement, and roadside assistance, among others. The agency states that boat insurance is just as important as automobile insurance and says that they can provide coverage for a number of vessels including pontoon and sailboats, house boats, and others. The agency offers boat and auto insurance coverage throughout South Florida and offers free quotes to new customers via their online quote form.
